

Call for Papers:

6th Workshop in Behavioral and Experimental Health Economics

University of Oslo, 13 - 14 December 2018

The 6th Workshop in Behavioral and Experimental Health Economics is hosted by the Department of Health Management and Health Economics, University of Oslo. The workshop aims at bringing together researchers who apply behavioral economics and experimental methods to topics in health economics, policy, and management, in order to present and discuss their papers and ideas. We welcome contributions on all health topics using all experimental methods, including field, lab, and online experiments. The workshop will include a Special CEAR Session on the topic of risk preferences in health, organized by Professor Glenn Harrison (Georgia State University). For each paper, we allocate 60 minutes to provide speakers with the opportunity for an in-depth presentation of their research.

Keynote speaker

We are pleased to announce that the keynote address will be given by Professor Anna Dreber Almenberg (www.hhs.se/en/person/?personId=12741033).

Anna currently holds the Johan Björkman Chair in Economics at Stockholm School of Economics, and is also affiliated with the University of Innsbruck. Her research is published in top scientific journals such as Science, Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, and American Economic Review.

Submission

If you are interested in presenting a paper, please submit an extended abstract in PDF format, including objectives, methods, results, and conclusions (up to 500 words) by e-mail to geir.godager@medisin.uio.no. If a draft paper is available, please submit it as well.

Deadline for abstract submission is 7 September 2018. Authors will be notified regarding the acceptance of their paper by 1 October 2018.

Participation fee

For participants giving an oral presentation, the participation fee is waived. Other participants pay €200. CEAR and University of Oslo support the workshop with funding that will cover food and accommodation. Participants giving oral presentation will only need to pay for their own travel costs.
